About One-Touch Links and Telephonic Court Hearings

Introduction:

You have reached the Alaska Public Defender Agency's list of One-Touch links for calling into telephonic court hearings. In this document you will find a list of judges and/or courtrooms organized by court location. For each judge and/or courtroom you will see a one-touch link, a QR Code that connects to that link, and the conference codes for that judge and/or courtroom. Sometimes you will need to call more than once to get through.

How to use One-Touch Links from your phone:

If you are viewing this page on an iPhone or Android device, simply press and follow the link to dial into the courtroom listed. It will automatically dial all numbers and codes. When you press the link it will show a screen that says "Call +1 (888) 788-0099" followed by the dialing instructions. Simply click on that link and it will dial into the court. Links may be texted, copied, or pasted into any other documents as needed.

How to use QR Codes:

To use the QR Code, open the camera app on your phone, point to the correct QR Code for your hearing, and press the link. You then press the link on the screen that comes up. QR Codes may also be photographed, copied, and pasted into other documents as needed.

About Telephonic Participation in Alaska Court Hearings:

Alaska courts do not have consistent rules statewide for telephonic participation in court hearings. Instead, there are a patchwork of rules that vary by judge, court location, judicial district, and hearing type. You should confirm with your lawyer or the clerk's office to determine whether you are permitted to attend your hearing by phone.

Confidential Hearings: Most but not all CINA hearings are public but confidential, meaning the public can listen to them but it is illegal to repeat what you hear. For more information see CINA Rule 3\(f\). Some judges do not publish numbers for CINA hearings. Juvenile Hearings are confidential, only parties to the case are generally allowed to listen.
